Bryson joined BLC to head the Treasury Management department, where he brings over 8 years of experience in helping organizations enhance their financial operations. He helps clients improve cash flow, prevent fraud, and implement treasury management solutions across industries including non-profits, municipalities, manufacturing, trucking, and commercial real estate.

With a strong commitment to building meaningful relationships, Bryson believes that banking is about trust—not just transactions—and approaches every client interaction as the start of a long-term strategic partnership. He works closely with clients to understand the full scope of their operations—connecting them with insights and resources that go beyond banking. He and the BLC team aim to be long-term partners, supporting clients with strategic guidance and a deep commitment to their success.

Bryson's advice for new clients:

"A great banking relationship goes beyond rates and transactions—it's about trust, insight, and shared success. At BLC, we're committed to understanding your full business landscape and being the strategic partner you can rely on to help your business thrive."

Bryson earned his Bachelors in Business and Sport Management with high honors from Madonna University in Michigan, after starting at Erskine College in South Carolina. He was recognized with the Fox Cities Chamber Future 15 Award in 2020, completed the WMC Executive Leads Fellowship in 2023, and was named to Insight's 40 Under 40 list in 2024.

He and his wife Lauren, who he met on a high school youth trip, have three daughters and a Lab/Husky mix named Tank. Bryson enjoys golfing, coaching soccer, traveling, and cheering for the Badgers, Lions, and Chelsea FC. Weekends often include family time at his parents' campground, "The Woods."
